

LUTHER LAFIN MILLS ILL.

A POSTPONEMENT OF THE CROWN CASE PROBABLE.

Mr. Forrest Still Talking—How the Leading Attorney for the Defense Looks on the Testimony.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Luther Lafin Mills, who was to have made the closing speech of the State in the Cronin case, is quite sick and an adjournment of court will probably be asked for by the State's attorney till his recovery. The hard work consequent on the trial has fatigued and worn out Mr. Mills. He is suffering from a bowel complaint, and he certainly will not be able to speak before Friday.

Mr. Forrest began his speech by showing the jury the map of the streets of Lake View and saying that the evidence showed that the wagon conveying the trunk had crossed the Northwestern railroad tracks near Clybourn avenue, while Capt. Wing testified that the nearest wagon would have been to go over Ashland avenue and Belmont avenue and then go south.

This would have been the proper, natural, easiest route for a driver of a wagon wishing to go from the Carlson cottage to the catch-basis in which the body was found. Therefore there is no doubt that the wagon came coming down Fullerton avenue ever as it came from the Carlson cottage.

The blood question was considered, and Mr. Forrest called attention to the evidence of how mental predisposition may and often does influence a witness' testimony. The testimony of Officer Lorch was commented on by Mr. Forrest. Lorch, on the stand, had testified that the stains on the wall were blood, the stains on the floor were blood, and even the stains under the paint were blood, and that didn't you find, Mr. Lorch, some cotton in the basement of the cottage?" was asked Mr. Lorch.

"Oh, yes."

"Was there blood on it?"

"No."

"So Mr. Lorch could tell that all the other stains in the cottage were blood, while those on the cotton in the cellar were not blood. But a young reporter was put on the stand and said that he and another reporter thought some absorbent cotton, then thought some liver and smeared the blood on the cotton. But Lorch could not tell this was blood, while he was sure that the other stains were blood. All this time the witness was bloody cotton in the basement of that cottage. You knew it when you came into the box. This blood-stained cotton was put there. How do you know that other blood was not put there in the other parts of the cottage?"

Mr. Forrest continued to discuss the evidence about the blood and the hair, and then said:

"There are some very queer circumstances in this case. I assert, and I assert confidently, that every circumstance which has been introduced in this trial, which was not brought out at the coroner's inquest, was fabricated. They were fabricated since the Clann-Gael took charge of this prosecution. The broken card as used by a conspirator, the letter thought. It was not shown at the coroner's inquest. It was made up since."

"Another afterthought was the letter 'This is W. E. Gladstone.' On the stand Carlson testified that he took the letter to O'Sullivan and read it to him. On the stand the letter was not shown to Carlson to be read by him. But Carlson was on the stand when he had said to O'Sullivan about the letter. If Carlson had learned the letter by heart for the very purpose he could not have repeated it so neatly and correctly as he did here on the stand when he was telling what he had said to O'Sullivan about the letter. So the substance of this letter was gotten to the jury. But the letter itself was not introduced. Why? Because, if the letter itself had been introduced, the handwriting of Martin Burke. Very clever! Was it that? Was it an afterthought? This trick of reading the letter by Carlson to O'Sullivan, so that he could tell it on the stand without the letter itself being introduced to the jury, was fabricated by the Clann-Gael. They reasoned thus: It does not make any difference. The jury is prejudiced, anyhow. They are against the prisoners, and they will only need an excuse to hang them."

HOG CHOLERA PREVALENT.

Thousands of Hogs in Kansas Destroyed by the Deadly Disease.

TORPEKA, Kan., Dec. 11.—Reports have been received from several districts in Kansas, in Greenswood county alone within the last week thousands of hogs have died from the scourge. The prevalence of the disease, which has had a decided effect upon the stock interests of the State during the last year, will occupy the attention of the State board of agriculture at its next meeting, and steps will be taken to stamp out the disease if such a thing is possible.

TO FORCE A QUORUM.

Montana Republicans Said to Have Decided on a Bold Move.

HELENA, Mont., Dec. 11.—There is a well-founded report that the Republican Senators will attempt to force a quorum of the Democratic Senators tomorrow by having brought into the Senate in order to break the Senate's deadlock. The Democratic Senators say they have not yet taken the oath neither the Senate nor its officers have any control over them, and should the sergeant-at-arms attempt to bring out the instructions there is a probability of bloodshed.

Haytiens Dissatisfied with Hypolyte.

New York, Dec. 11.—The steamship Alois arrived here today from Haytian ports. The commander reports that there were no decided evidences of a second outbreak among the people. There was, however, an ill-concealed feeling of dissatisfaction with the rule of Hypolyte manifested upon his visits to the northern ports. The Haytiens evidently live in great fear of their new president, who it was alleged was levying unjust taxation upon his subjects.

OLIVER JOHNSON DEAD.

Deaths of the East of the Twelve Original Abolitionists.

NEW YORK, Dec. 11.—Oliver Johnson, one of the associates of William Lloyd Garrison in the organization of the abolition party, died at his home in Brooklyn today. Mr. Johnson was born in the village of Peacham, Vt., Dec. 27, 1809. When a boy he was apprenticed to the watchman at Montpelier, but in 1831 he went to Boston and began the publication of a weekly paper called the Christian Soldier. He was four years younger than William Lloyd Garrison and his paper was established but a week later than Garrison's famous Liberator. The two men were soon drawn together and for thirty years and more they worked side by side in the great cause of freedom. Mr. Johnson lectured frequently on the subject of slavery, and traveled throughout the eastern States agitating abolition. In 1884 Mr. Johnson was appointed assistant editor of the New York Tribune. In 1880 he published a book on "William Lloyd Garrison and His Times," and up to a few months ago was connected with the New York Evening Post. Mr. Johnson was twice married and leaves a widow and one daughter.

TWO POLICEMEN SHOT.

Chicago Burgars Empty Their Revolvers Into Their Would-Be Captors.

CHICAGO, Dec. 11.—Officer William Davis of the Cottage Grove avenue station was shot and probably fatally injured by burglars this morning. Officer H. G. Thomas of the same station, in attempting to arrest the assailants of Davis, was wounded in the arm. In spite of the fact that he was hurt, Thomas drew his revolver and commanded the robbers. They kept up a fire from their weapons as they ran and Thomas kept up the pursuit until his own revolver was empty.

On the encounter with Thomas the men separated, one running north and the other south on Wabash avenue. Thomas gave a good description of them, which was telephoned to all the stations, and their arrest is likely to occur at any time.

LATER—About 11 o'clock Officers McNamee and Bonfield arrested William Bennett, who is said to have been fully identified as one of the men who did the shooting.

Sennett was living with a woman named Mollie Quinn, who, the police say, was the female who gave them the information as to the whereabouts of Mollie Mott and Dyer Scanlan. Sennett, it is claimed, is a desperate man and has served two penitentiary terms.

A Hunting Party of Prominent Citizens Supposed to Have Been Drowned.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 11.—Dr. T. T. Munor, a well-known physician and politician, George Morris Haller, a leading attorney, and a prominent member of the bar, are all supposed to have been drowned while hunting on the waters of the lower Sound. Thanksgiving evening they went on a hunting trip. They were to have returned Wednesday, and, as no information from them has been received, grave doubts have been expressed by their friends as to their safety.

An Embroidering Vice-President.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Dec. 11.—Richard D. Kyle, vice-president of the Anderson-Harris Carriage company, was today arrested on a charge of embezzlement. A few weeks ago he had a rupture with the company and embezzlement was then suggested. Kyle paid the company $20,000, and it was supposed by him that the charge would go with it, and that he would go on and show that this handwriting of Martin Burke. Very clever! Was it that? Was it an afterthought? This trick of reading the letter by Carlson to O'Sullivan, so that he could tell it on the stand without the letter itself being introduced to the jury, was fabricated by the Clann-Gael. They reasoned thus: It does not make any difference. The jury is prejudiced, anyhow. They are against the prisoners, and they will only need an excuse to hang them."

Shot by a Burglar.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., Dec. 11.—This morning about 3 o'clock Frederick G. Bechtel, proprietor of a shoe store in Scotia, which is across the river from this place, discovered four burglars entering his place. He rushed out on the road and fired at one of the burglars and they fled back. A bullet entered Bechtel's face just above the nose, and he took a downward course, lodging at the base of the brain and it will probably result fatally. The police have no clue.

He was a holder of a twenty-third of the second capital prize drawn in the last drawing of the Louisiana State Lottery, and he received $5,000 in crisp bills last week. The full amount, which was drawn by the number he held was $100,000.—Boston (Mass.) Herald, October 2.

MANGLED IN A THEATER.

ILL-FATED JOHNSTOWN HAS ANOTHER HORROR.

Twelve Persons Crushed to Death and Scores Injured in a Panic—The Casualty Record.

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Dec. 11.—As the performance of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," was drawing to a close in the Main street opera house last night the fire bell was rung, causing a frantic scramble for the exit. There were 500 or 600 men, women, and children in the hall, and to gain the street it was necessary to pass down a narrow, walled-up staircase and through a very narrow door. The people from the streets rushed into the door from the outside and many were crushed before they could be forced out. It was necessary to turn the hose on the crowd at the door before the rescuers could get at the dead and wounded. When the crowd was driven away the following persons were found dead upon the stairs: The Dead.

E. BIGLER.

MISS CLARA BURNS.

MRS. NESTER.

GEORGE HORNER.

CHARLES FRANK.

WILLIAM MILLER, colored.

JOHN CARL.

GEORGE STONAKER, of Mount Pleasant.

LIZZIE CLAYCOMB.

The Injured.

Among the seriously injured were: CHARLES VAUGHN.

JOHN WATERS.

ALBERT OWENS.

MRS. LISTER.

MRS. PLATT.

RICHARD WORTHINGTON.

CLARENCE ENGBERT.

LEWIS BUNDY.

There are about seventy-five others injured, but their names can not be ascertained.

The dreadful visitation came upon its victims with even less of warning or time for preparation than the awful deluge of May 31. The Johnstown opera-house was opened to the public less than a fortnight ago. Since "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was the play, and there was a large audience present considering the very limited means which Johnstown people now find at their disposal for such kind of amusement.

During the performance the cry of fire was raised.

To a people to whom any sudden warning might mean as much to those who had so recently passed through the horrors of the greatest flood of the century, this cry was terrifying in the extreme. It spread like wildfire itself, and was on every lip in an instant. Horrible confusion and panic-stricken hundreds of people in the audience rushed over seats, struggling bodies, and everything toward the one means of exit. This was only a single narrow door, and over one another, the frightened people plunged, regardless of consequences.

When the calamity became known and before the dead and wounded could be taken out people rushed from the outside up the narrow stairs and were crushed by the crowd forcing its way to the street.

By 1:45 o'clock nine dead bodies had been recovered from the wreck of the opera house, and a number of others were being taken to the hospital. The injured had been assisted to doctors' offices and drug stores for relief and restoration. By 2 o'clock twelve dead bodies had been counted out and it seemed as if the number might yet be swelled—possibly doubled. The number of injuries at this hour has reached 120.

Twenty-five and there has been as yet only the most superficial and hasty searches for either the rescued or dead.

When the jam occurred a large number of people, thinking the fire was in the opera house, tried to get into the theater, making another jam, and it was necessary for the firemen to turn the hose on the crowd to get them away from the door. The screams were terrible and it was shocking to see small children knocked down by big men and trampled upon.

The theater has always been noted as a death trap and a condemnation twenty years ago, but the other one was washed away in the flood and this one has been in use.

The manager tried to quiet the crowd, but it was no use. One man jumped from the third-story window and was seriously hurt, and many more would have jumped but for a few cool heads. It is reported that the police injured several persons in trying to clear the jam. All the dead were taken to Henderson's morgue and all were identified.

Coroner Evans and jury of six men viewed the remains and came to the decision that the victims came to their death by being crushed and mangled in Park's opera house.

Among the killed was a colored man of Chambersburg, Pa., aged 19; Stonaker of Mount Pleasant was 20; Lizzie Claycomb, 19; Clara Burns, 18. Mrs. Burns, mother of George, aged 40, was killed. Isaac Toler was 60; George Horner, 11; Mrs. Nester, 25; E. Bigler, 8.

It is likely that the officials will close the opera house, although had the crowd not been so dense the bodies would not have been hurt. An unknown man in the boys' gallery did a great deal in keeping the people from jumping from the third story windows and doubtless saved many lives.

Blame is put on the fireman who rang the Johnstown fire-bell, as the fire was in Kernville, but he is not to blame. Post-mortem examinations of the bodies of Harris, and others acted nobly in rescuing the injured. Women and men alike were frenzied, and there was fighting on Main street while those inside were being killed.

It was over two hours after the alarm before the hall was cleared, and some of the injured and dead were lying in the building an hour after the crash. Most of the injured were taken to the adjoining stores and properly cared for.

The excitement is intense. There are several persons missing, all ladies, but owing to the confusion their names can not be ascertained. A large number of saloons were open until 12 o'clock and drunkenness added to the horror of the scenes. Had not the hose been turned on the crowd it is hard to tell what would have been the result.

The house is a small, three-story, brick building, fronting on Main street, and, like the south-fork reservoir, has always been considered unsafe. While the new one was in operation it was little used and had a small exit from the second story by a narrow pair of stairs to the street. It had no fire escape.

A Young Man's Terrible Death.

LOCKPORT, Ill., Dec. 11.—Marcus Campbell, the 17-year-old son of J. L. Campbell, the well-known millwright, at present in the employ of the Japanese government, was killed by the cars yesterday afternoon near Summit, on the Chicago & Alton railroad. He was knocked between the cars and the spout of the water tank at that place and horribly mangled. He lived, however, for nearly an hour in terrible agony, begging those who were with him to kill him and put an end to his misery. He died just before reaching his home in this place.

A FRIGHTFUL EXPLOSION.

Two Men and Their Team and Wagon Blown to Pieces.

The explosion occurred when some nitro-glycerine was being put into the wagon at the factory. James O. Woods and William Medill and their wagon and team were blown to pieces.

The cause of the collision was the negligence of the work train conductor, who forgot the approaching train.

Three Trainmen Killed in a Wreck.

WASHTON, S. D., Dec. 11.—A mixed train on the Manitoba road, twenty-two miles from Watertown. Six cars and a combination car were precipitated down an embankment, instantly killing Engineer James H. Haines, fireman John Kilgallen and brakemen John Rooney, all of Benton, Minn. Conductor Blake was also injured, but not seriously. The train was running at a low rate of speed, or the accident would have been much more serious.

A Michigan Mine Flooded.

CRYSTAL FALLS, Mich., Dec. 11.—The Caledonian mine was drowned out Monday under peculiar circumstances. The miners ran a shaft under the river and when a blast was exploded the river burst through and filled the mine. The men barely escaped with their lives. SOALIA, Ind., Dec. 11.—Mr. Tilgman McDermid, a school teacher, and wife, who reside about twelve miles north of this place, Tuesday afternoon attempted to cross White river at Clark's shoals in a small canoe, but on account of the water being very high they lost control of their boat and were both drowned.

Big Blaze at Joliet.

LABOR MEN IN CONFERENCE.

Meeting of the American Federation at Boston—Gov. Ames Present.

BOSTON, Mass., Dec. 11.—A large number of delegates were present at the American Federation of Labor in the common council chamber, City hall. The chamber is handsomely decorated with the stars and stripes, red, white, and blue streamers, and with banners and insignia of the various trades represented, tastefully arranged.

The convention was called to order at 10 o'clock by President Gompers. Gov. Ames was introduced and addressed the convention. The Governor welcomed the delegates to Massachusetts, saying they could not have chosen a more appropriate place for their meeting. Speaking of the relations of capital and labor he said there is no antagonism between them. The without capital labor is hampered and its results limited in these days of large organizations, but without labor capital becomes unproductive. "In your discussions," said the Governor, "I believe you will bear in mind that these relations are reciprocal and that to shift the center of power far in either direction is to invite disaster."

Mayor Hart was introduced and made a brief address welcoming the delegates to Boston, after which President Gompers spoke on the benefits of organized labor. The remainder of the day was occupied in the transaction of routine business.

AUSTRALIAN FEDERATION.

Conservative F. A. That the Colonies Will Emulate the United States.

SINCE, Dec. 11.—The Sydney Times, the Premier and Colonial Secretary, is following up his proposition for a federation of the Australian colonies upon the model of the Dominion of Canada. This scheme is directed against the proposition for the formation of an Australian army, but it aims especially to overcome many gross evils of misgovernment which seem inseparable from the present system; and, while it has many other supporters, Sir Henry Hurrell, there is a Conservative element which apprehends that if once the colonists take to organizing a general colonial government they may not land in the submissive hold held by Canada, but will desire to emulate the giant steps of the United States. Sir Henry, in elaboration of his proposal, suggests the adoption of all border duties and absolute free trade between the colonies, guaranteed, if necessary, by special intercolonial treaties; a uniform marriage law to protect the family from the evil of divorce, as seen in the United States; and a uniform railway gauge for the whole country. He proposes Albany, in New South Wales, as the capital of the confederation.

DRIVING OUT WHITE MINERS.

Negroes Imported to Dig Coal at the Spring Valley, Ill., Dec. 11.—Monday twenty-nine negroes arrived at the Seatonville shaft of the Chicago, Wilmington and Vermilion Coal company, five miles from here, to dig coal supply at 1400 ft. The shaft was running all summer during the strike, the men being paid by the day, but after the strike was settled at this place the company, ignoring its contract, established a new basis of pay which resulted in a material reduction. Most of the men quit work, many of them seeking and obtaining employment at this place. The arrival of the negroes has caused great excitement, as there is a strong feeling against them among the miners here and in the surrounding locality. Tuesday another invoice of fifty arrived, indicating the policy of Manager Sweet to pay less wages than any of his competitors, even though he resort to this means.
